COUNTY REPRESENTATIVE TO BOY'S SCHOOL STATE FAIR 1920.

Finley Klingensmith, Dist. No. 1 Grayling Township.

Nyland Houghton stood first in the Agricultural test but, on account of the age qualification, Finley Klingensmith, who held second place was allowed to make the trip. He was sent a round-trip ticket to Detroit and free admission to the State Fair held at Detroit at that time. A committee met him, saw that he was cared for, and his expenses were paid while there. He was given a splendid trip because he had earned it. The same offer holds good in 1921, for boys at least fourteen years of age. Twenty-five must write the test.

Here is a chance, boys.
Prepare to write May 13th.

RURAL SCHOOL NOTES.

Children in Dist. No. 4, Beaver Creek, R. D. Bailey, teacher are enjoying some most excellent work in agriculture. Mr. Bailey is so well versed and enthusiastic about this work, which is of so vital interest especially to the rural boys and girls, that the children in this district are favored like in no other school in the county. This week special emphasis is being placed on soil problems; pests of the farm; inoculation of seeds of legumes. All lessons are made practical by actually working with soil and seeds, etc.

TIMELY TOPIC.

You are invited to attend the Michelson Memorial church next Sunday. Of course you intended to be there anyway for that is the habit of decent and respectable people.

The morning sermon will be called, "The Watch Dogs are Barking."

Come and hear whether you agree or not with the preacher.

No our congregation was not as large last Sunday evening as churches should have but we dive ahead just the same for we have the thing people will need some day when all other things fail. There is a verse from an old book, so old that few read it, and the book says, "Seek ye the Lord While He may be found."

Now is the time of salvation. Tomorrow will not do. Come and hear of these subjects next Sunday.
E. B. Doty.

COMING.

A. S. Allard, eye sight specialist of Cheboygan will be in Grayling at Shoppingtons Inn, Tuesday, April 26. One day only. Fitting glasses that give service is my hobby. My equipment is modern and up-to-date, and I devote my entire time to examining eyes and fitting glasses, that give eye comfort and service.

Difficult cases and children's eyes a specialty. Remember the date—Tuesday, April 26.

HEAR TALK ON TAXATION

BOARD OF TRADE HAD INTERESTING MONTHLY MEETING TUESDAY.

Number of Matters Pertaining to Welfare of City Discussed.

One of the most interesting regular monthly meetings of the Board of Trade held this year was that of Tuesday night last, and those who have braved the storms of getting started and getting the organization on its feet, feel highly compensated by the way things are progressing.

There was a good attendance of members, who enjoyed the pleasures of the club rooms socially until the hour of 8:00 when President Christ W. Olson presided over the meeting and didn't waste any time introducing M. A. Bates, who had agreed to give a talk on taxation.

Mr. Bates' address was full of good, sound information, such as every taxpayer should know. He told of the work of the State Tax commission and cited a number of instances wherein he believed they had been in error. Also of the workings of the State Board of equalization.

Other matters, important to the welfare of our community came up for discussion. Shortage of milk in Grayling is causing a lot of inconvenience to many families, especially where there's young children and babies. It is hoped that some remedy may be had that will guarantee regular supplies each day.

The necessity of a capable county agent is being keenly felt and efforts are being made to get the right person to take up this work here. Whoever the Board of Supervisors may secure for this position may feel assured that they will have the backing and assistance of the Grayling Board of Trade.

Another matter that came before the meeting was the fact that Saginaw county was not contributing to the support of the Northeastern Michigan Development bureau. The wholesale and retail industries of that city derive a lot of business from this section of the state and anything that has a tendency to promote the welfare of Northeastern Michigan, it was claimed, Saginaw should help to support. Crawford county as well as the other sixteen counties of this region annually contribute to the support of the Development bureau, which has been the means of bringing hundreds of settlers into this part of the State. The Bureau has proved beyond any possible doubt its worth to the people and interests of this region. Saginaw benefits from our growth and success and it was felt by the Grayling Board members that that city should do its part in helping to support the Bureau. The attitude of Saginaw county has been the means of the business interests of Saginaw losing hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of business from Northeastern Michigan business men and shoppers who feel that they will favor the business places that are willing to reciprocate by helping to boost for them. This matter brot out considerable discussion.

These are just a few of the things that were considered in the meeting, but there were other matters that came up some of which are premature and would not be advisable to be given publicity.

The Board has now about fifty members and are onto a good financial foundation. The purchase of the furniture and furnishings of the club room made quite a financial load to carry but they are now on easy street in that respect. Some advertising is being planned but this will require additional revenue and must come from a still larger increase in membership.

NOTICE.

Having again been called to Grayling for special work, I will give any orders left with Mr. Brown, music teacher or Sorenson's Confectionery Store during the week of April 25th, my prompt and careful attention.
E. V. Smith, Piano Tuner.

FAVORS ANGLERS LICENSE AND WANTS MORE FISH PLANTED.

Grayling, Mich. April 12th, 1921.
I cordially endorse the bill which is now before our State legislature to provide for an angler's license for residents of the State.

The lakes and streams which I know are fished very hard should be restocked more heavily than they have been.

Anglers spent much money for expensive fishing tackle and fish hard in order to catch a few fish.

If anglers spent more money for restocking the State with fish I believe that they could spend much less money for fishing tackle and still catch more fish than now.

Some expert anglers say that they would rather fish hard all day with the most expensive tackle and only catch a few fish rather than have them come to easily, but there are also many people who fish hard without catching enough fish to eat or to make the game interesting.

While acting as a guide and boatman for anglers in Michigan, I have met an angler from England. I have also met anglers from California, Arizona, Texas, Arkansas, Maryland, Florida and many from Chicago, Toledo, Cleveland, Detroit, Pittsburgh, Washington, D. C. and other places.

Michigan has a valuable tourist trade in spite of the fact that many of our lakes and streams are fished out.

Restocking the State more heavily with fish would cause this trade to increase and I feel that the lakes and streams of Michigan could be made to pay as well as gold-mines if sufficiently restocked.

I believe that restocking the lakes and streams of Michigan to their full capacity could increase the health, wealth and happiness of the citizens of Michigan as well as the health, wealth and happiness of many non-residents of the State.

I believe that most people who care to catch fish would be pleased to pay for a license if they knew that the money would be used to restock the State with fish.

Some people buy a hunter's license when they have no intention of hunting because they feel that they thereby help to preserve our wildlife.

There appears to be a noticeable difference in the shape of the Michigan-grayling compared to the shape of the grayling of Montana and Alaska. I am anxious that something be done to preserve the Michigan-grayling from extermination.

While in Toronto I met a son of one of the Hardy Brothers who manufacture a high grade of fishing tackle at Alnwick, England. He told me that they have the grayling there and I note that they quote grayling flies in their catalogue. They also quote flies for Canada and United States of America.

Sincerely yours,
Leon Babbitt.

P. S. When people pay a fine for violating the fish laws, why not have this money go to the Fish Commission instead of to a Library fund as it now does?

Ford THE UNIVERSAL CAR

Let There Be No Discord

If your Ford car is out of tune, there is undoubtedly a very good reason for it, and the best way to find that reason, and have it remedied, is to jump in and drive to our authorized Service station, where one of our mechanics who is thoroughly acquainted with the Ford mechanism and who knows the Ford way to adjust or repair your car, can tune it up in a garage that is properly equipped to give real Ford service. Then, too we never use imitation parts—only the Genuine Ford-made, strong and durable. They wear from thirty to seventy-five per cent longer than the counterfeit parts that are softer and more cheaply made. In fact it is dangerous to human life to use imitation parts, and it is not fair to your Ford car or your pocket book.

We are a part of the gigantic Ford Service organization whose purpose it is to serve the owners of all Ford cars and trucks; we have more than a passing interest in your car. Prompt service is given on all work—from a minor adjustment to a motor overhaul. Drive in and see the facts for yourself—there's too much money invested in your Ford car to miss connections with the authorized Ford dealers.

"Dead Men Tell no Tales."

W. F. Brink has returned from spending the winter with his son Arthur in Everett, Washington. He arrived in Grayling last Friday afternoon having taken the northern route. He is now visiting with his son Rolla in Bay City and expects to remain there but will make frequent trips to Grayling. Mr. Brink says there is no place like Michigan, he not being very much in favor of the west.

A party of people of Roscommon while out picking trailing arbutus recently at the head of Robinson's creek near there, ran across a den of foxes. They succeeded in catching four young ones which they took home with them. The man of the party then went out taking his dogs along and in a search came across a nest of five young ones. He will attempt to tame the animals and make pets of them.

Next Monday, April 25th the traveling health clinic will open in Crawford county and the first four days will be spent in Grayling where clinics will be held at the school building. On Friday, April 29th, a clinic will be held in Frederic. The people of the county are urged to take advantage of this fine opportunity and visit the clinic on one of the days it will be in Grayling or Frederic.

GRAYLING, THURSDAY, APR. 21

APRIL CIRCUIT COURT SESSION
SHORT ONE WITH NO
JURY.

The report of the proceedings of the Circuit court, which convened at the Court house in this city the fore part of last week, was inadvertently overlooked in our last week's issue. It was one of the shortest terms of court held in Grayling in some time and no jury was drawn for the session. This was owing to the special session that was held some time ago to dispose of the criminal cases of Boss and Blanch. Judge Guy E. Smith was present and the cases on the docket were disposed of as follows:

In the case of the American Express Company vs. Henry Joseph, garnishment. No action was taken in this case.

A default for not appearing was made in the case of Emil Niederer and Leona Niederer, divorce, and the defendant was allowed to file a cross bill.

A court decree was granted in the matter of the petition of the State for the sale of certain lands for taxes assessed thereon for the year 1918 and previous years.

In the case of Rasmus Hanson vs. Albert J. Charron and Baptiste Davis, foreclosure, the mortgage was foreclosed and decree granted.

In the case of Charles Brown vs. Otto W. Roesser, garnishment, the case was dismissed.

A decree was granted the plaintiff in the divorce case of Anna C. Norstrand and Carl J. Norstrand.

The sentence of Peter Robertson for violation of the Prohibition laws, which was postponed at the last term of court by Judge Smith was given out at this term. The defendant was fined $125.00 to be paid before the July term of court.

An extension of time was granted to file a bill of exceptions in the case of Baldwin vs. Parker, which case had been appealed to the supreme court.

IS ADVERTISING WORTHWHILE.

A few years ago it was common to hear a man boast that advertising had never sold him anything. Inquiry probably would have developed that he was awakened by a Big Ben, shaved himself with a Gillette, brushed his teeth with a Prophylactic tooth brush, put on his B. V. D's, his Holoproofs, Regal shoes, E. & W. collar, and Arrow shirt and had Kellogg's corn flakes, Beechnut bacon and Yuban coffee sweetened with Domino sugar for breakfast. And he probably wrote his letters on Strathmore Papers. But why pursue him further on his trade-marked way? Of course advertising never sold him anything!

YOUNG GIRL DIES SUDDENLY.

Miss Lillian Frances May, oldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank May passed away suddenly at their home in this city at 6:00 o'clock Sunday morning from sugar diabetes. Her death was a severe shock to her parents as well as her friends, for although she has been ailing, yet she was not taken seriously ill until Saturday morning. About a year ago she became the victim of this lingering disease which slowly sapped her young life until her vitality was almost gone. She had been in a very weakened condition, but the last two months seemed to be slightly improving. She was not able to walk very long distances without becoming weary. Only Friday afternoon she was out for a car ride with her father. Lillian was twelve years old and when it was necessary for her to leave school about a year ago was a pupil in the seventh grade. She was of a quiet disposition and her time was spent mostly in the home with her mother. She had many young friends who were deeply moved by her untimely death. Miss Lillian was born in Grayling May 1909.

Brief services were held at the home early Monday afternoon and the remains taken to Pinconning, the childhood home of Mrs. May for burial.

Besides the parents and two children, Mr. John Bugby, father of Mrs. May, and Mrs. Rhoda Everett, accompanied the remains. The funeral was held Tuesday afternoon. One brother and three sisters survive the deceased besides the parents, Arthur, Dorothy, Frances and Helen. The sorrowing parents and other members of the family have the sympathy of the community in their affliction.

SOME ACTIVITIES OF THE DEVELOPMENT BUREAU.

The Northeastern Michigan Development bureau is carrying out a plan for advertising good farms of the district in the farm publications and papers which have a circulation among farmers. In other sections of Michigan and in adjoining states, for the purpose of attracting more settlers to this part of the state. Recent advertising by the bureau is also bringing in a large number of inquiries from farmers who have gone from various parts of the United States to the Canadian northwest and who, having found that conditions there are not nearly so rosy as had been painted, now want to get back on some of the good lands of Michigan.

For the purpose of disseminating specific information about Northeastern Michigan the bureau has contracted for the "Ask Mr. Foster" service in the cities of Detroit, Buffalo, Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis. This service maintains information bureaus in some of the principal hotels, department stores, etc., of these cities and is especially valuable to the bureau in providing information to summer tourists, intending settlers, etc., regarding the attractions of the district.

Plans are being made to bring several parties of farmers and their families to the bureau for summer automobile tours this year, and to provide camping accommodations for members of these parties the bureau has purchased 20 tents and 50 folding cots which will be leased or sold to tourists.

The Michigan public domain commission has contributed $500 to the bureau for carrying on its work this year. The boards of supervisors of Alcona and Otsego counties, at their sessions last week renewed their subscriptions to the bureau and it is expected that the Oscoda supervisors will adopt a similar course at their forthcoming meeting.

ASKS SALES TAX
OF 1% GROSS

SENATOR SMOOT'S BILL WOULD YIELD ABOUT BILLION AND A HALF REVENUE.

CALLS PLAN SIMPLE AND EASY

Provides Proper Distribution of Tax
Burden; Attack Made On Present
Excess Profits Tax.

Washington.—A general sales tax was advocated in a statement by Senator Smoot, Utah, a Republican member of the Senate Finance Committee. The measure was introduced Tuesday in the senate. Senator Smoot's measure, which he estimates would yield approximately $1,500,000,000 in revenue annually, would place a flat tax of 1 per cent on gross sales above $5,000 annually of virtually all commodities, both raw materials and finished products. The bill carries a number of exemptions, but application of the tax would be stayed virtually only on such lower commodities as now bear a higher levy.

Early consideration of the Smoot proposal is planned by the Senate Finance Committee in its study of the taxation question. Tentative arrangements contemplate the opening of hearings on this phase before the end of the week.

Mr. Smoot said the tax would be "simple in application and easy to compute." He declared it would properly distribute the burden of taxation, compelling each citizen to bear a share proportionate to his ability to pay as measured by his buying or producing powers.

"If the sales tax becomes a part of the revenue laws of our country," the statement continued, "Congress can repeal not only the items provided for in the bill as presented by me but can repeal all of the irritating, nagging, discriminatory taxes amounting to hundreds of millions of dollars, and the excess profits tax, the result of which has worked such havoc with business concerns of our country and which have in many cases been compelled to pay the excess profits tax on paper profits."

Present taxes on soft drinks, tobacco, automobiles, and some other so-called luxuries would remain under the bill. These commodities already bear taxes regarded as heavier than the flat 1 per cent tax. In addition to the tax on sales, a levy having the same application would be placed on total amounts of all leases.

Heart Disease Proves Fatal to Ex-Empress Augusta Victoria.

Dobrn, Holland.—Former Empress Augusta Victoria of Germany died here at 6 a. m. Monday. The end came just one year after she suffered her first serious attack of heart disease.

It was while she was preparing to enter the House of Doorn, the present home of the former emperor of Germany, after her long residence at Amerongen, that she was stricken with what at the time was believed to be a fatal attack. That was on April 11, 1920. For a few days there were reports that her death was momentarily expected, but she rallied, and accompanied her husband to Doorn on May 15, last.

MEANT GIFT TO BE USEFUL

Sender of Wedding Present Knew Quite Well What Her Sister Would Need in Time.

"What a peculiar choice for a wedding present," remarked an Englishwoman, trying not to laugh, as she inspected a huge flatiron which her charwoman had just purchased.

"Aint it, ma'am?" said the charwoman. "It's my sister that's getting married, and I'm repaying her for the gift she sent on for me on my wedding day."

"Did she send you something very ugly, then?"

"Lead, no, ma'am. Her's was a beautiful present. But, you see, ma'am, a little bird whispered to me that her future husband's a man of violent temper, and I thought I'd send her something that would be useful in case of family disputes. She has the straightest aim with a flatiron I ever seed!"—Houston Post.

PRESSING DAD PRETTY FAR

Youth's Last Question Certainly Might Have Been Called Pointed and Personal.

A most promising youth recently sought information from his father touching family affairs:

"Dad," said he, "do you like mother?"

"Why, what a question! Of course, I do."

"And she likes you?"

"I am certain she does."

"Did she ever say so?"

"Thousands of times, my son."

"Did she marry you because she loved you?"

Whereupon dad became angry, and said:

"See here, young man, you're getting entirely too personal. But I don't mind telling you that she did."

The boy scrutinized his parent closely, and after a pause added:

"Tell me, dad: Was she as near-sighted as she is now?"

Doubtful Transaction.

"I understand the Crimson Gulch posse took some cottagers into custody."

"Yes, sir," replied Cactus Joe. "And it cost us citizens quite a sum of money, paid in advance, to persuade them run runners to map their route in this direction and get their stuff confiscated."

TAXI

An Adventure Romance
GEORGE AGNEW CHAMBERLAIN

COPYRIGHT THE BOBBS-MERRILL COMPANY

After a minute and furtively study of all the exits from Manhattan, the plain clothes men had given it as their united opinion that Mr. Randolph had been speaking facetiously in his last-known remark and had probably not voyaged farther south than Canal street. They said if he would only try to leave New York they could find him at once, and settled down on a policy of watchful waiting for that event.

The efforts made by Mr. Milvyns in the direction of springing Miss Thornton on society went equally awry, but were not quite so fruitless. His natural love of a smooth-running establishment on the slippery crust of Gotham's social plane would have been saved a severe bump if American parents were as careful to look up their guests' moral records as they are to study their ratings in Bradstreet's.

Unfortunately for Mr. Milvyns, it happened that a certain young scion of a once gentlemanly house was included in the first large dinner-party given to meet Miss Inogenia Pamela Thornton. In the natural course of such events, the party youth stepped up for presentation, registering in his protuberant eyes a gleam of dubious surprise. What if he should say, "Hello, Vivienne?" Would it create a sensation?

Something else did, namely, Miss Thornton's modulated but terribly clear voice.

"I met Mr. Deamer," said Pamela, drawing back quickly her half-extended hand, "when I was a chorus-girl." She turned with a winning smile to her recently budding hostess. "I don't care to know him in pleasant surroundings."

For one breathless second there threatened one of those silences that spell social disaster. Eileen took it upon herself to mash it in its extreme youth with a soft tap of her efficient hammer.

"Oh, must you really go?" she remarked to Mr. Deamer.

Did this spectacular debut strike the name of Inogenia Pamela from the lists of the matronly elite of Manhattan? It did not. Invitations rained on her and found her unresponsive. Her would-be hostesses would have gone the length of submitting rostrums of proposed guests as though to royalty, except for the fact that each and every one of them wished to put her own nearest and dearest to the test of a sudden meeting with the most exclusive of New York's latest crop of buds.

Pamela refused and accepted these bids for the latest thing in sensations in the most erratic manner. No one could fathom just why she said, "No," and much less why she occasionally said, "Yes." The mystery only added to the demands for her company and the Nixes soon began to show an overwhelming preponderance over the Ayes. Why? Simply because it was not in the power of any of the hostesses to call up the moody girl and said: "My dear, we are going to have just pork and beans for dinner tonight. Won't you join us?" Mr. Robert Hervey-Randolph said he would drop in for pot-luck.

Yes; every time Pamela had accepted an invitation, it was in the rapidly waning hope that Mr. Randolph, beloved and once at the beck and call of these very people, would appear and come into his own. Could she have surmised that on two separate occasions the knight errant of her thoughts had actually seen her in her most ravishing bibulous evening tucker, had driven her to two familiar doors, taken her money with averted face and without inspecting the "clock," had passed on to some quiet street and drawn over her new glory and read the latest batch of ads crying for news of the whereabouts and welfare of self—could she have known these apparently insignificant items in the daily life of the great city, she would have wept her lovely eyes out twice over.

Such being her state of heart, imagine her excitement when Mr. Milvyns called by appointment and related word for word the following conversation which he had participated in that very morning with Miss Madge Van Teller of East Ninth street:

"Oh, Mr. Milvyns, are you doing all that advertising for Bobby Randolph?"

"Yes, Madge; I certainly am, and if it doesn't bear fruit pretty soon I'll have to give up tobacco."

"Are you advertising for his own good? I mean is it important to him—not to you—for you to find him? Would he be really and truly glad to be found even against his will?"

"Er—yes—er—it is—er—he would—or—if he isn't sixteen kinds of a fool, I think I caught them all, my dear, but if I left any out, please repeat."

"Yes," admitted the lady question-mark; "your legal mind answered them all. Now tell me just your human self—if you were in Bobby's place, would you want to be found by you for the purpose that you want to find him for?"

Mr. Milvyns did not pretend for one second that he did not understand the preposterously worded query.

"You bet I would!" he answered promptly and emphatically. "Now tell me what you've got up your sleeve. Please, Madge; that's a dear girl! If you only know how I'm worried seven times a day—"

"I'm trying to tell you," broke in Miss Van Teller, "but you talk so much I can't get anywhere. Last night, a taxi brought me home from—er—from a drive, and the cabman was Bobby, looking simply stunning in one of those awfully high-collared, khaki, waist-elastic woollen coats, chauffeur's cap, tan puttees, boots, and all—"

"Yes, yes," interrupted Mr. Milvyns; "I know now just how he looked. What was the license number of the car, and to which company did it belong?"

A long pause.

"Why, I didn't notice."

"Thanks awfully, my dear."

Sound of banging up the receiver.

"So there you are," said Mr. Milvyns to the very much excited Pamela. "We've got this far, and by a fluke entirely unconnected with the twenty-two slouches I have been persisting in advance of their lifeline service, Robert is driving one of the sixty-three thousand taxicabs that infest the streets of New York."

"Poor dear!" said Pamela, tears rising to her adorable eyes. Then she dismissed Mr. Milvyns, who would gladly have lingered. "I have to go out now. I'm so sorry, but thank you very, very much."

"Can't I drop you wherever you're going?" asked the very human mind of the leading legal authority on corporation hedge-rows and byways.

"Oh, no," said Pamela, translucent as love itself; "I shall go in taxis."

How many vulgar vehicles for hire were blessed by the transient presence of Miss Thornton during the next seven hours is a matter of gross mathematics and consequently beneath the ken of an intelligence that can clink along about nice things like Pamela and Robert.

Pamela was short of breath when she reached the telephone, but she managed to get Mr. Milvyns' residence on the wire and learned that he was detained at the office. She called up that safe den of the would-be undisturbed and connected with a new and strange drawl.

"You've got the wrong number, lady. This Mr. Milvyns went home early to celebrate his silver wedding."

"Will you put me through to Mr. Borden Milvyns," asked Pamela, in a sugar-sweet voice. "Or do you really want to start looking for another job?"

"How do I know you know him—Miss Hurry, did you say? The office boy ain't here, so I can't ask him. Leave me your number, and I'll have him call you."

"Know him?" gulped Pamela, in a rage. "Why, I've kissed him!"

"Kissed Mr. Milvyns?" responded the voice, taking sudden notice. "Well, dearie, why didn't you say so? I thought you was one of them high-brow dames. If it's a matter of kissing the boss over the wire, just you go to it. I won't listen—oh, no!"

And a moment later, Pamela, in a streamline body:

"Oh, Mr. Milvyns, this is Pamela and I've found him! . . . Yes; Randy—Mr. Randolph. . . No; he got away! . . . Yes. He's going under the name of Slim Hervey and he was driving the Village Cab company's No. 1898, and he smashed it on the curb just in front of that horrid Poppy club, and when he saw me, he ran. . . Oh, you will get him, won't you? Please hurry. And now, if you'll hang up, I have a few words to say to that new telephone girl of yours. . . Oh, no! you needn't tell her; I can feel her sagging on the wire. . . Oh, will you? Oh, thank you! It isn't as if she didn't deserve it!"

RABBIT'S INSTINCT AT FAULT

Probably Would Have Died in Trap From Which It Might Have Escaped With Ease.

I have seen a bird tethered to its breeding place—its feet held fast by the hairs which lined its nest—but, until the other day I had never known or heard of a rabbit being caught in a snare of its own devising, writes an observer of nature. In an old pasture in Middle Tevotdale, where the grass grows rank beside the old hawthorn hedge which fences the field, a rabbit was seen to be struggling as if striving to escape from a snare. On going up to the spot, I found that the hind legs of the rabbit were firmly bound together with "ropes" of growing grass. Apparently the little captive had been rolling itself among the grass, and, in the process, had unwittingly woven its own bonds. The rabbit had evidently been a prisoner for some days, being thin in body and feeble from the effects of its fruitless struggles for liberty, while the ground around the tufts of grass to which it was fastened was closely cropped, though seemingly instinct had never suggested that it might have eaten away its "chains."—The Weekly Scotsman.

New Use for Wood Pulp Waste. By carrying a step further the process of recovering sulphite spirit from the waste of wood pulp factories, by evaporation, it has been discovered that a new and valuable fuel may be produced, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. The process precipitates the organic contents of the lye in the form of powdered coal.

Bird Film Artist. New York has a bird which has started on a successful film screen career. He is a cockatoo called Cheon. His beautiful white feathers attracted the attention of the director of a large film company, and now he has a job appearing in all scenery when birds are needed. He gets a good salary.

PROMINENT NEW YORK MAN PRAISES TANLAC

John F. Hyatt, of Albany, N. Y., Is Relieved of Severe Attack of Rheumatism of Many Years' Standing.

JOHN F. HYATT
227 Pearl St., Albany, N. Y.

"I am now seventy-two years old and am just getting rid of a fifteen-year case of rheumatism that had me so crippled up I could not walk," said John F. Hyatt, 227 Pearl St., Albany, N. Y. In relating his remarkable experience with Tanlac, recently, Mr. Hyatt was chairman of the committee in charge of building the Albany County Courthouse and was four times elected a member of the County Board of Supervisors. At present Mr. Hyatt is Assistant Superintendent of the Albany County Courthouse, with offices in the building.

"I don't believe," he continued, "anybody could have rheumatism any worse than I did, and my case was of such long standing I didn't expect to ever get over it. I was unable to walk except for a short distance, supported with a cane, and even then the pains struck me every time I took a step. My legs, hips and ankles hurt something awful and my joints were stiff and aching. I couldn't cross my legs without having to lift it up with my hands, and to turn over in bed, why, the pains nearly killed me."

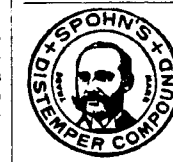

"My appetite was gone and the sight of food nauseated me. My stomach was out of order, and I had a sluggish, heavy feeling all the time. I was weak, off in weight and discouraged so that it looked like I might as well quit trying to ever get well."

"I had no idea Tanlac would relieve my rheumatism when I began taking it last Spring. I took it because I saw where it would give a fellow an appetite. Well, sir, I was the most surprised I ever was in my life when the rheumatic pains began to ease up. I took seven bottles in all and, it's a fact, I didn't have an ache about me, was eating fine and simply felt like I had been made over again."

"I have been in the best of health ever since, with only a slight twinge of rheumatism at intervals. I do not need my cane now, but as I had been unable to walk without it for several years, I got into the habit of carrying it and so still take it along. I am enjoying life and health once more and can conscientiously recommend Tanlac as the greatest medicine I have ever run across in all my experience."

Tanlac is sold by leading druggists everywhere.—Adv.

A Feeling of Security

You naturally feel secure when you know that the medicine you are about to take is absolutely pure and contains no harmful or habit producing drugs.

Such a medicine is Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, kidney, liver and bladder remedy. The same standard of purity, strength and excellence is maintained in every bottle of Swamp-Root.

It is scientifically compounded from vegetable herbs. It is not a stimulant and is taken in teaspoonful doses. It is not recommended for everything. It is nature's great helper in relieving and overcoming kidney, liver and bladder troubles.

A sworn statement of purity is with every bottle of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root. If you need a medicine, you should have it on sale at all drug stores in bottles of two sizes, medium and large. However, if you wish first to try this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.—Adv.

is as profitable as grain growing. Successes as wonderful as those from growing wheat, oats, barley, and flax have been made in raising horses, cattle, sheep and hogs. —land equal to that which through many years has yielded from 20 to 45 bushels of wheat to the acre—grazing land convenient to good grain farms at proportionately low prices. If you want to get back to the farm, or to farm on a larger scale than is possible under your present conditions, investigate what Western Canada has to offer you.

PREVENTATIVE MEDICINE.

The tendency of medical science is toward preventative measures. It is easier and better to prevent than to cure. Pneumonia, one of the most dangerous diseases that medical men have to contend with, often follows a cold or attack of the grip. The cold prepares the system for the reception and development of the pneumonia germ. The longer the cold hangs on the greater the danger. Take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy as soon as the first indication of a cold appears so as to get rid of it with the least possible delay. It is folly to risk an attack of pneumonia when this remedy may be obtained for a trifle.
